Q: Java InputStream issue I need to create a audio program that constantly reads data from a file in order to get the audio stream of a song. At this point, I have no idea how to read the stream. I have tried ByteArrayInputStream and FileInputStream but I get an error saying UnsupportedOperationException. I'm trying to figure out how to read the file as ByteArrayInputStream, but that also has not worked. Any advice? The snippet of code I am using is:

try { while (n < length) { int c = 0; int b = 0; int audioBytes = 0; //buffers number of audioBytes from inputStream while (audioBytes < byteBuffers) { //get the next audioBytes from inputStream. // If we haven't read all the bytes in the inputStream, // the next read will happen immediately inputStream.read(byteBuffers); audioBytes += byteBuffers; } int byteCount = audioBytes; int convertedByteCount = convertInPlace(audioBytes); byteData = new byte[convertedByteCount + byteBuffers]; FileInputStream fileInputStream = new FileInputStream(audioFile); BufferedInputStream bufferInputStream = new BufferedInputStream(fileInputStream); int buf;
```
